Student Artist’s Work On Display

The talent of Canton’s student artists from kindergarten to 12th grade was on display during the annual K-12 Foundation Fine Arts Show that took place this past Sunday. From the artist, Natasha Sato, the works were drawing a concept that focused on mixing different objects and forcing them together. Once finished, it still represents the main focus of both pictures. The shading helped to make everything more realistic, but by not adding any shadows to the picture, I added a contrast by making them look less like flowers because she is always blooming, becoming more beautiful with each and every day. Peonies are my favorite flowers, so adding them into the picture gave the whole drawing more significance. I had an underlying sensation of satisfaction on display, along with ice cream served to raise funds for the Foundation.

The last week of the legislative session will be largely occupied with the final agreements on the budget, which is due by 11:59 p.m. on Monday, March 13, 2017, and run through June 30. So far, the Governor has been diligent on this budget and has met with, and approved several bills that have been vetoed in the legislature. As such, there is no reason to believe that the Governor will not sign the final budget into law. However, the Governor has been consistent in stating that the final budget will be a balanced budget, and will include significant tax relief for businesses.

When I was a child, I remember my parents saying that “you can’t spell Devil without V.” This is because the word “Devil” is comprised of the letters D, E, V, I, L, which are the same as the letters that form the word “Victory.” This is a common misconception, and it is important to correct it.

C-Hawks win Region over EPJ, fall to Tea

A long range shot from DeJong but the Hawks�품질 48-48 Tea would match the Hawks basket for basket. Two baskets from Peterson and DeJong made the score 66-49 but they wouldn’t score again until 2:31 when DeJong tied the ball back up under the basket for an offensive rebound and 2 points. Beachler found out with 1:46 left in the game and after 2 points from Nelson and Sorno the Hawks would end their season with a 73-55 loss. ‘It’s tough to see our boys’ basketball season come to an end,’ said Coach Paul Anderson. ‘Of course, that’s partially due to the fact we lost to Tea in a tough battle to the second round of regionals, but it’s also because it was a fun season.
This group of young men worked hard, they showed up everyday to practice and to every game, ready to play, they were dedicated.
Our five seniors truly stepped up and stepped in to the roles we needed them to play, we’re going to miss them but are excited to see them continue to excel. Speaking of dedication, my assistant coaches, Brad Boyle and Jordan Heat do an incredible job whether it’s practice or on the sidelines of a game. It was also great to add our team Chaplin, Bryan Loy, to our bench this year. Also, can’t say a huge thank you to all the C-Hawk fans for your support.
