Hope After Heartbreak: Weathering the Storm

By Emily Songwiler

Thirty years ago, in October 1988, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed the month of October as National Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month, stating, “When a child loses his parent, they are called orphan. When a parent loses his or her partner, they are called a widow or widower.”

This October, two Canton families, while honoring and remembering their babies they never got to meet, were also celebrating the recent births of their “rainbow babies” after nearly identical losses within just months of each other. A rainbow baby is often referred to as a baby that is born following a miscarriage, stillbirth, or neonatal death, representing the rainbow that often follows after a storm.

Dan and Molly (Lems) Windisch were married last year and had just a few months to experience the losses of their loved ones, Josie Windschill and Rosalee Joyce Scott, in the final weeks of September in 2016 and 2017 respectively.

On September 17, 2016, “I always told people, I was pregnant with the perfect child and I just felt so peaceful. In my arms. Everything looked so perfect. I just felt so healthy,” says Scott. “But I knew,” says Windschill.

Molly could sense something wasn’t quite right during her thirty-two hours of labor. “I knew it would happen to me when I had the doctor announce we had a girl,” says Windschill. “I was devastated for Molly and Dan found out their happy news, Molly could sense something wasn’t quite right during her thirty-two hours of labor.”

According to Dr. Sarah Gackle, a Marietta ob/gyn, miscarriages usually happen within the first few months of pregnancy, with 10% of all pregnancies ending in miscarriage. “We would never have guessed she was pregnant with the baby that was needed at this point in the family. It is estimated as many as one in four of all pregnancies and in miscarriage, and 10% of those miscarriages usually happen within the first trimester. A miscarriage refers to a pregnancy that is lost before twenty weeks. Stillbirth refers to the loss of a baby after twenty weeks. Stillbirth is a pregnancy that did not reach the 26th week of pregnancy, and for readers interested to better grasp the timeline of how it happens, the Windisch/Molly Scott/Lemos families have created a new calendar, titled “October is Pregnancy and Infant Loss Awareness Month.”

“This is a personal journey that both the Windschill/Lesms and Scott/Solem families have shared with one another,” says Rachel of Canton, who is the sister of Rosalee Joyce Scott. “We had lost our babies within a month of each other. This is a time that a lot of good people, why didn’t this happen to us?”

Rachel’s pregnancy was also fairly normal and she was starting to think about the next baby. “I’m thinking about the next baby, she didn’t feel very good” says Windschill. “I’m thinking about the next baby, she didn’t feel very good” says Windschill. “I would have been more relaxed, more comfortable. I knew I needed to go to the hospital and she went to the hospital.”

When Rachel went to the hospital to get her blood drawn, her baby just didn’t want to be in the hospital. “I was devastated for Molly and Dan found out their happy news, Molly could sense something wasn’t quite right during her thirty-two hours of labor.”

It felt as though the whole world had stopped, everyone was crying, except for the Windschill family. “Just bursting into tears, saying ‘No, no, no, no,’ says Windschill. “I was a new mom to a little baby and I just didn’t want to lose him, but I can’t begin to describe what it is like to go through it knowing the outcome of what happened.”

The doctor announced they had a little girl and everyone was crying, except for the Windschill family. “I was a new mom to a little baby and I just didn’t want to lose him,” says Windschill. “I was a new mom to a little baby and I just didn’t want to lose him.”

An estimated 3% of all pregnancies end in loss, ranging from 5% in the United States, with over 24,000 cases in the United States each year. Typically most stillbirths happen before labor even begins, but a small percentage occur during labor.

In the time following Josie’s loss, Windschill was asked to speak to several groups, a process which made the ‘working through the pain’ a little more bearable. “The community really stepped up to support us and between the Windschills, he is making the lives of many people who have lost children easier to live.”

It is like to go through it knowing the outcome of what happened, the doctor announced they had a little girl and everyone was crying, except for the Windschill family. “I was a new mom to a little baby and I just didn’t want to lose him,” says Windschill. “I was a new mom to a little baby and I just didn’t want to lose him.”

The Promise of Jim Bolin to You

In November 2018 we will elect a new governor. When we agree with our new governor we will support their policies. However, when I disagree with the new governor, I will respectfully oppose their policies.

THE PROOF

Bolin opposed two of Dennis Daugaard’s main ideas even though they are members of the same political party.

2012 – HB 1234 • Bolin opposed this priority proposal of the governor which would have prevented many schools and concentrated virtually all educational authority to FEP.

2016 – SB 131 • Bolin opposed the new school aid formula because he believed that it would hurt small and medium sized schools the most. Also, this will make the biggest sized districts. This is new.

Jim supported two of Dennis Daugaard’s key proposals.

2015 – Bolin supported funding increases for roads and bridges especially as they have funding requests for these proposals. Roads and bridges are a huge priority for Bolin.

2016 – Bolin supported necessary funding increases to keep quality teachers in our classrooms.

Have you wondered where the school and sports programs get their money? Well one way is through booster clubs. Here is how they help the school, athletes, and more. Canton booster club is run by a whole bunch of different parents who meet once a month throughout the school year. The Canton booster club’s purpose is to promote school spirit, unity, and good sportsmanship. They help fund summer programs and camps, athletic awards and banquets, school spirit night, sport equipment and weight room equipment, and more.

If you’re interested in donating money to the booster club you can do it in many different ways. One way is the booster club does a membership drive each year where each person and business can choose which level they chose to pay to help support the booster club. They do a winter fundraising event during a doubleheader basketball game. During the basketball game they do games for the kids/students and cook suppers for the community. The communities’ financial donations helps the booster club enhances the C-Hawk athletic experience for players, coaches, and fans. Without the communities’ help the Canton Athletic booster club would not be possible. Thank you!

Rupi Kaur: America Tour

By Kelsey Erickson

Rupi Kaur is a poet who has graced our local libraries with “Milk and Honey” and “The Sun and Her Flowers.” Let me just start by saying that Rupi Kaur is one of the nicest people I’ve met. I recently interacted with the crowd the entire time and paid homage to her family throughout the entire reading. When I met into the State Theatre in Minneapolis, I had no idea what to expect. I thought that she was just going to recite some poetry and be done in an hour, but boy was I blown out of the water. Three hours in and I did not want it to end. Her use of music, humor, stories, and just the way she carries herself captured the audience’s attention. Not one time did I see someone look bored when I was able to feel my eyes off the stage. This tour is amazing and her poetry is amazing and she is amazing.

Effects of Energy Drinks

By Madison Fossum

Energy drinks are no longer the new phase, they have become a popular staple in the diet of millions of Americans. Their growing popularity has also led to the publication of several surveys conducted, 30-50% of Americans 25 year old and younger have tried energy drinks. Undecided would most likely restrict sales of energy drinks due to many caffeine overdoses. Adolescents have been a major target of the energy drink industry because many are oblivious to the effects of what they consume. The amounts of caffeine are so high because they are categorized as a dietary supplement; whereas pop has to be limited because it’s in the food category. Once your body has adjusted to ingesting caffeine on a regular basis, you can experience caffeine withdrawal if you have tried a dose you are not used to. The effects of this can cause headaches and migraines. Overall, energy drinks do give you a boost but too much of these can have dangerous effects.

Energy drinks have high amounts of caffeine and sugar that are supposed to give you energy and improve athletic performance. They have been associated with many health problems including seizures, cardiovascular abnormalities, and behavioral disorders. Many states and countries have looked into restricting sales of energy drinks due to many caffeine overdoses. Climate change has already had observable effects on the environment. Glaciers have shrunk, ice on rivers and lakes are breaking up earlier. Plant and animal ranges have shifted and are flowering sooner. Some effects of global warming include: warmer air temperatures, higher sea levels, more intense heat waves, and altered precipitation patterns. Scientists have high confidence that global warming will continue to rise for decades to come. Some future effects include: continued loss of wetlands and other wetlands being replaced by dry land, lengthened frost-free seasons, and changes in ocean currents due to more droughts, and stronger heat waves.

Some solutions to climate change can be to reduce our consumption of gasoline both in the present by carpooling and planning trips and in the future by reducing reliance on the automobile. This can be done by carpooling and planning trips, investing in alternative energy sources, and by driving more fuel efficient vehicles. Reducing our use of carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases can not only reduce the effects of climate change but also improve our own quality of life.

Breast cancer is a cancer that forms in the cells of the breast. More than 266,000 new cases of invasive breast cancer will be diagnosed in women annually, and women over all the world are affected by the disease. Out of these 266,000 women only 40,920 women were found to have breast cancer annually.

In October 1993, President Clinton had reserved the third Friday in October to be “National Mammography Day.” This day urged companies, clinics, and radiologists to provide free mammography screenings. A mammography is the process of using low-energy X-rays to examine the human breast for diagnosis and screening. Getting an annual mammlograph will make you stay on track with your breast health.

Breast cancer can affect men and women from age 13 up. Although breast cancer is most often diagnosed in women, around 400 men are affected yearly as well. October is the designated month to raise breast cancer awareness and to honor both those who have survived and all those who have not.

That seemed like an odd thing to say right now, but I didn’t want to see the rest of the family hurt. And what about Breah? How was I going to tell her about her sister? It was then, in the weeks immediately after arriving at the hospital.

At the time of Rosalie’s passing, Molly’s grief over Josie was still very fresh. “Since we lost Josie, I have realized there was no way that I’d be able to do something like this,” explains Windschill. “I was able to Writing quickly became like therapy for me.”

So desperate, in fact, that Molly decided to take it a step further and publish a book about her experience, called “Joy for Josie: A Mother’s Journey Through Grief, Healing, and Hope After Loss.”

Once the two grieving mothers found themselves in the same position, they turned to one another for comfort and support as well, a bond that only the two of them could truly understand.

“Molly helped me so much through my grief,” said Rachel. “I was able to talk to her because she was really the only person at the time that I knew that had gone through the same thing. I would ask her questions and she would always bring up her own healing journey, for some even decades later. Knowing that Josie continues to be remembered and that she made a difference in so many lives has been a huge blessing.”

A non-profit organization based out of Orange City, called Awakening Grace, also played a significant role in assuring Molly and Rachel and their families at the time of their daughters’ deaths. The organization was founded in 2015 by a couple of Northwest Iowa mothers who had experienced losses before. When they lost Josie, the organization had grown, and provided Windschill and her husband a care package filled with special items including a personalized base and bracelet, candle box, book and other self-care items. The most special gift was a custom-made burial gown for Josie. When Rachel and Ryan also lost their own daughter, they were able to provide the same services for their family as well.

Because these two Canton families will forever mourn the losses of their daughters, there will never be a conclusion that marks the end of their time of grief. However, the heart-warming yet bittersweet conclusion to this two-part series of the Sioux Valley News will continue in next week’s issue, illustrating the most important aspects of the Windschill and Scott families’ journey, ultimately celebrating the births of their rainbow babies.

For more information on Awakening Grace and the services they provide to families who have experienced a loss, please visit their website at www.awakeninggracefoundation.org.

Ryan and Rachel Scott hold Rosalie shortly after birth. Rosalie Joy Scott was born sleeping at 1:31 a.m. on February 21, 2017, just a little over an hour after arriving at the hospital.

Rosalie, Awakening Grace was there to provide the same services for their family as well.

After CDHS recently announced its Dueling Duo Piano Show fundraiser, attendees have expressed enthusiasm. The event is set to take place on Monday, October 29, at 7 p.m. at the YWCA, and admission is $15.00 per person. The fundraiser is in support of CDHS’s efforts to raise funds for various programs, including mental health and substance abuse treatment services.

The event promises to be a unique and entertaining evening with a variety of musical performances. Attendees can expect to enjoy a range of musical styles, from classical to modern, as the duo piano players showcase their skills.

In addition, there will be a silent auction featuring items such as gift certificates,艺术品, and other unique items. Attendees can bid on these items during the event, and all proceeds will benefit CDHS.

The evening will also feature a cash bar, where guests can enjoy refreshments while mingling and enjoying the music. The YWCA will provide a comfortable and welcoming atmosphere for attendees to come together and support a good cause.

CDHS encourages everyone to purchase tickets in advance to ensure their spot at this exciting event. Tickets are available for purchase online or by contacting CDHS directly. The organization urges attendees to come out and support its mission while enjoying a night of music and fun.

The extra point pass was incomplete. Jacobsen, Heikkila and Baldwin took the next handoff and ran behind Dietzenbach on a 14 yard pass play. Verley all ran the ball and moved the ball down to the 9 then hit Verley on a quick slant pass and got the ball to the 10 after an 8 yard run. Moving the Hawks down to the 27. Next play Scheidt ran for 18 yards gaining the first down. Scheidt made tackles for loss after a 14 yard run by Shaeden. The Hawks led 26-0 till the end of the 3rd quarter heading around the right end. Zander Beyke 2/44 avg. Cody Sodquist runs around Sioux Valley defense to move the ball down field for the C-Hawks.

On the Hawks next drive as the time ran out in the 3rd quarter Canton forced a punt to start the 3rd quarter. Cody Soderquiest runs around Sioux Valley defense to move the ball down field for the C-Hawks.

Defensively, we shut them down most of the game and forced four turnovers. We’re very happy with the win today. Now we focused on Ronkelli. They will be much better than the first time we played them.
